

Point Care Accountability Policy

As the Point Care policies are new and students will be struggling with many new changes this year, every effort will be made to be educational in approach and seek to avoid discipline situations. However, due to the importance in adhering to Point Care policies, and the potentially significant impact violations could have upon the health and wellbeing of all members of the community, there may be occasions when repeat offenders or significant violations will need to be address with sanctions. In those cases, Student Life adjudicators will operate under the following guidelines:

1. Violations of Point Care policies will be considered behavioral in nature, and as such will fall under the Point Discipline System outlined within The Point Community Honor Code.
2. During the add/drop period students will be provided warnings for violations so they have a limited time to become familiar with the policies.
3. The following violations are examples of violations which will be considered Minor offenses under the Point Discipline system:
  - a. Failing to wear a mask in a required area.
  - b. Failing to follow designated building traffic flow.
  - c. Failing to observe posted social distance guidelines.
  - d. Students visiting a residential space they are not authorized to visit (this will be in addition to co-habitation sanctions if applicable).
  - e. A residential student staying overnight in a room to which they are not assigned.
  - f. Residential students using a common area restroom other than the one to which they have been assigned.
  - g. Failing to abide by posted group gathering limits.
  - h. Failing to follow posted cleaning and sanitation guidelines (not cleaning down equipment as directed after use).
4. The following are examples of violations which will be considered Major offenses under the Point Discipline system:
  - a. Intentionally falsifying information on a daily screening.
  - b. Bringing a non-Point guest into a living area.
5. The following is an example of violations which would be considered Double Major offenses under the Point Discipline system:
  - a. Intentionally falsifying COVID-19 test results and providing them as medical evidence. (submitting a known false negative or positive to achieve a desired outcome: i.e. return to campus when it is unsafe to do so, or be unnecessarily quarantined)
  - b. Other risky or dangerous behavior taken to intentional expose other student(s) to the COVID-19 virus.
