Assistant Professor of Sociology, College of Social & Behavioral Sciences – West Point, GA

Point University is a private liberal arts institution that educates our students within a Christian worldview so they are equipped to take their faith into the marketplace and all of life while achieving their professional goals. We are training the next generation of Christian leaders to take the cross to more job sites, churches, industries, and nations than ever before.

Point University is seeking a full-time instructor in the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences (SABS) for its residential program on the West Point, GA campus. The Social and Behavioral Sciences degree program integrates perspectives from psychology, sociology, and anthropology as it prepares students for careers in social services, mental health, social work, law and public policy, child and youth services, and education.

Primary teaching responsibilities will be sociology and social work, but there may be opportunities to teach other relevant courses (e.g., diversity; ethics, applied social policy). Candidate will teach two online courses per year and the rest of their course load in the residential setting on the West Point campus.

Preferences will be given to candidates who hold a social work credential, but it is not required.

REQUIREMENTS:

- Graduate degree in sociology, social work, or clinical social work is required
- Teaching experience preferred
- Experience in online course development/course redesign preferred
- Effective communication skills
- Willingness to be a role model and mentor to students online and residential
- Commitment to undergraduate education, professional growth, service, and scholarship in a distinctively Christian setting, including agreement with the University's mission and goals, values, and doctrinal statement.
