

Greetings from Sierra Nevada Journeys, Grizzly Creek Ranch. Sierra Nevada Journeys is reconstructing our hiring networks that were disrupted by COVID, and we hoped you might consider sharing these open opportunities with the amazing people in your networks.

Sierra Nevada Journeys is hiring a lot right now for what we expect to be our highest-demand summer seasons at our camp in Portola, CA. If any of your alumni or youth would be interested in working in youth development at our camp this coming summer, please share this with them.

We're currently hiring several Outdoor Educator roles with varying lengths of contract dates of either May 31st – August 6th or May 31st – November. Over the summer, Instructors lead camp programs for other partnering nonprofits focused on serving youth with outdoor and leadership education. Our Outdoor Program Instructors also live (in staff housing) and work in Portola, CA. Sierra Nevada Journeys provides competitive pay, housing and meals while working at camp, along with a very diverse and inclusive work community.

During the Spring and Fall Outdoor Program Instructors lead residential, three- to five- day outdoor science educational programs primarily serving fifth and sixth grades from regional elementary and middle schools, with a goal to provide culturally relevant and impactful learning opportunities for youth. All our lessons are hands-on science and collaborative problem solving-based with a focus on critical thinking, exploration, and environmental stewardship. Instructors lead a group of 12–15 students throughout their program, including facilitating large group activities, leading meals, and working evening programs.
