Assistant Professor of English, College of Arts & Sciences
Residential Program – West Point, GA

Point University is a private liberal arts institution that educates our students within a Christian worldview so they are equipped to take their faith into the marketplace and all of life while achieving their professional goals. We are training the next generation of Christian leaders to take the cross to more job sites, churches, industries, and nations than ever before.

Point University is seeking a full-time instructor of English in the College of Arts & Sciences for its residential degree programs. The English curriculum focuses on the study of the English language and literature, writing and literary analysis, and prepares students studying any discipline to engage their culture professionally and intellectually. Primary teaching responsibilities will include:

Critical Reading and Writing I
Critical Reading and Writing II

While the majority of the teaching load will be On-Ground, this role also includes teaching in our online degree program as assigned.

Priority will be given to candidates with qualifications to teach within a secondary subject area of history/general humanities.

REQUIREMENTS:
- Graduate degree in English (minimum of 18 graduate semester hours in English; doctorate preferred) with additional qualifications to teach in history/general humanities
- Teaching experience preferred
- Experience in online course development/course redesign preferred
- Effective communication skills
- Willingness to be a role model and mentor to students online and residential
- Commitment to undergraduate education, professional growth, service, and scholarship in a distinctively Christian setting, including agreement with the University's mission and goals, values, and doctrinal statement
